CONFERENCE BRIEF:

The American Society of Civil Engineers-India Section (ASCE-IS) is organizing a one day international conference on Friday - Sept. 8, 2023 at The Ashok Hotel, Delhi, India ahead of G20 summit. There is an immediate need to expedite and transform how infrastructure is envisioned, planned, financed, engineered and designed to higher standards in response to the climate crisis; and explore how those engaged with policy, design, regulation, and procurement can protect and improve the lives of poor, marginalized, and vulnerable populations to ensure that we leave no one behind. Different pathways are being elevated to this end, and through this event, the priority is to leverage established engineering societies in partnership with procurement, research & development, and technology, to influence planning, designing, constructing, operation, maintenance, and retrofitting of all infrastructure in all geographies. Engineers recognize their ethical responsibility to build safe, resilient, and sustainable infrastructure. Engineers stand ready to work in concert with the G20 leaders and look forward to fostering a meaningful and productive relationship with all infrastructure stakeholders.

The Conference will highlight:

- how engineering standards, regulations and infrastructure procurement practices can de-risk projects, attract more funding, be used to reduce embodied carbon, promote life cycle cost comparisons, protect and restore the environment; and
- prioritization of strategies and actions to be taken collaboratively or in coordination/synchronization

The conference will recommend a roadmap for policies, standards, and programs to attract financing to build quality infrastructure that leaves no one behind, ensuring that social, economic, environmental, and institutional resiliency and sustainability are appropriately integrated to build better before disasters strike. The Conference is intended to provide direction on how financial institutions and multilateral development banks (MDBs) through policy/regulatory work with government, and their own procurement policies and practices can ensure "quality infrastructure" for climate action, specifically through engagement with professional bodies in the infrastructure sector.

The conference would bring world leaders, subject matter experts (SMEs) and all other stakeholders together. The conference is support by Asian Development Bank (ADB), World Federation of Engineering Organizations (WFEO) representing 30 million engineers globally, Asian Civil Engineering Coordinating Council (ACECC) representing engineering societies from 17 countries. The conference includes key note addresses by Mr. Jeff Taylor-Chief Procurement Officer, Asian Development Bank (ADB), Philippines; Senator Dr. Rosa Galvez, Canada; Mr. Amit Prothi, Director General, Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure (CDRI), India; high level representative of the White House/Administration, USA; Mayors representing local government across the globe; and high level representative of the International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN), UAE.

The success of this event will only be possible with support from the industry. Without the support from industry, we cannot subsidize the event to engage the broader industry stakeholders. We kindly request your consideration and appreciate your full support.
